

Welcome to the Aldersgate United Methodist Church website. We value your privacy, and encourage you to review our Web Privacy Policy. If you have any questions, please contact our church administrator at sarah@aldersgatechurch.org.

This website may provide links to other sites or documents on the World Wide Web. Aldersgate United Methodist Church has no control over and is not responsible for the content and availability of those sites and documents. Please report any broken or inappropriate links to the web administrator at webmaster@aldersgatechurch.org.

Aldersgate United Methodist Church may require personal information such as name, address, phone number, or email address from you if you register for an activity. The information thus collected will not be published or distributed, and will be used only in conjunction with the activity for which it was collected. You are always in control of initiating these requests, which are sent via email to specific individuals.

Aldersgate United Methodist Church may provide for electronic funds transfer for payments or donations over a secure connection. The information thus collected will be used only in conjunction with the recording of those payments or donations.

The Aldersgate United Methodist Church website collects and aggregates information provided by your computer via a third party statistics service each time you visit this site. All information collected is anonymous. The information is used to determine which parts of the website are of interest and how people are accessing them. This allows us to optimize our website for the majority of users.

The Aldersgate United Methodist Church website places cookies on your computer, if you have allowed cookies in your browser preferences. These cookies allow us to determine if you have received certain content, so that we can avoid showing it again. We do not store any personal information in cookies. All cookies placed by our website are set to expire in a short amount of time (no longer than one month). There are additional cookies placed by the content provider, over which Aldersgate United Methodist Church has no control.

Aldersgate United Methodist Church reserves the right to make changes to this policy.